Personal Statement

I am a physicist specializing in data analysis and programming with a passion for Dark Matter Physics. My work brings astrophysics and particle physics together, using computational tools to explore theoretical models. Beyond research, I engage in science communication, sharing insights through my blog and social media platforms.

Current Professional Situation

Predoctoral Fellowship. Employer: Spanish National Research Council (CSIC) | Department: Astroparticle Physics, Institute of Corpuscular Physics (IFIC). | Start date: 09/03/2023 | Professional category: Predoctoral Contract, Group 2. | Dedication: Full-time.

Main Responsibilities: My work within the KM3NeT collaboration focuses on two primary areas:

- Data Analysis: Analyzing experimental data to search for dark matter via Cherenkov light signals produced by neutrinos.
